

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I use my phone for very few long distance and local calls, it is primarily for use by me and my daughter for the most necessary of family needs. We are very frugal in this and many other expense items, we are out of necessity very frugal. To impose new tax in the form of a flat fee will surely cause a hardship on me and my family and strain an already difficult economic lifestyle.

I ask you not to impose a flat fee for the USF collection, surely there is some more reasonable less harsh method to produce the revenue that is sought.

Thank you for your consideration

Sincerely,
